Railing as easy as 1-2-3 (4-5)

You know wherever there's decking, there's railing. But traditionally, that's meant either a stick-built wooden version, an early-generation composite railing combo or a white PVC model. In other words, not much variety.

Instead, Trex has a better way to build railing: with modular components. A simple step-by-step process helps you choose the basic elements of railing in not-so-basic materials, finishes and colors. What follows are details on our three distinct lines—Trex Transcend®, Trex Reveal® and Trex Select®—including every rail, baluster and post sleeve to help you build the most durable, most luxurious railing around.

*Available in Classic White
 Available in textured Charcoal Black, Classic White and Bronze

Railing—a lot easier than it looks

Each section of Trex® railing is comprised of the pieces shown below. On the following pages, we designate these components with a numbered process (3-step or 5-step) for easy tracking as you plan.

High design, myriad options

For those projects that demand the very best, Transcend® railing offers the widest assortment of customizable components with the most color options—seven in all.

Here's how:

Transcend is a 5-step process. Choose Trex® post sleeves, caps and skirts (steps 1 & 2). Then choose rails and balusters for a custom design (steps 3-5).

Transcend also offers a simple, 3-step option if you choose a rail & baluster kit in Classic White.

Minimalist style, maximum strength

Aluminum's superior strength enables the minimalist design of Trex Reveal®, perfected by a choice of three neutral colors.

Here's how:
Trex Reveal is a 3-step process. Choose Reveal aluminum posts (which include a cap* & skirt) for steps 1 & 2, and pair with a rail & baluster kit (step 3).

OR
Choose Trex® composite post sleeves, caps and skirts for steps 1 & 2, and pair with a Reveal rail & baluster kit (step 3).

* Crossover posts (pictured below) do not include a post cap.

1+2 ALUMINUM POSTS

Crossover

The top rail is installed on top of crossover posts to create a continuous graspable handrail.

Traditional

The top rail is installed between traditional posts, which include an attached post cap.

Vinyl price, composite performance

With singular top and bottom rails, square balusters and a go-with-anything Classic White color, Trex Select® composite railing borrows the conventional style and low price point of traditional vinyl, without sacrificing durability.

Here's how:
Trex Select is a 3-step process. Choose Trex® post sleeves, caps and skirts (steps 1 & 2) and pair with a Select rail & baluster kit (step 3).

The bright idea

With the dimmable glow of four lighting options, you can create the right mood lighting right under the moonlight.

- » Energy-efficient Cree® LEDs give off long-lasting illumination*
- » Sophisticated fixtures create custom lighting effects and designs
- » Trex® LightHub™ connection system makes set-up a snap for DIYers
- » Protected under warranty for years of outdoor use

Deck Lighting

- » Recessed deck lights
- » Stair riser lights
- » Post cap lights
- » Deck rail lights

Here's how:

Choose a post cap light instead of our traditional post sleeve cap for Step 2a. Add deck rail lights to illuminate Trex post sleeves.

Recessed deck lights and stair riser lights can be used on decking and stairs as an additional accent.
